

Partner with Providence to Slash HR Costs...

Overview

Managing development staff for any given length of time is always a challenge.

Providence makes it possible to focus on solving your client's business problems by abstracting away staff management concerns such as training, knowledge management, retention, remuneration, team management, project management and more.

Providence manages these concerns by providing the Development Team with:

- Ongoing training opportunities
- Bonus incentives
- Dedicated project managers
- State-of-the-art facilities.
- Collaborative development platforms

In addition to these HR initiatives, Providence also offers other HR specific benefits such as:

- The offshore team is represented by a local team of architects, client managers and testing staff.
- Senior Providence staff have at least 5 Years OO development experience and 2 years .NET experience.
- Developers carry at least a Microsoft, MCSD Certification or UNIX qualification.

Providence also gives you the control and scalability to adapt to changing market conditions and workflow.

All this means that you can rest assured with a quality team without having to invest management time and money into ongoing Human Resources concerns.

Local consulting, client management, project management, architecture, testing and implementation.
